With its Victorian villas and picture-postcard waterfront, Devonport is one of the most delightful places in Auckland to walk around. The waterfront along King Edward Parade, past the Devonport Golf Club, 'DYC', was frequently seen on America's Cup winner Sir James Blake's yachts and this was where he learnt to sail. Further down the parade is Torpedo Bay, a nice spot for a swim in summer. Turn right up Cheltenham Rd and take a detour up Takarunga Rd for a view from North Head and its tunnels.

Coming down the mountain, turn north again to the end of Cheltenham Rd to walk along the beach. McHugh's of Cheltenham is open for a buffet lunch from 12 noon, or keep walking until you get to Narrow Neck Beach for a coffee and cake at Narrow Neck Beach Café. Visit historic Fort Takapuna, a rather quaint crenellated 'fortress' right on the beach. Either way you can walk back along Vauxhall and Albert Rds (the Devonport Museum is at Mt Cambria - open 2pm - 4pm weekends only). Turn in to Church Street for a quick walk to Ice It Café, up to Mt Victoria, and then down again to the Village shops. Earned a drink? Have a beer at any of the café bars along the street before hopping back onto the ferry for your ride back to the city.
